

MANIGANCES

Thriller

(1 x 90min. or 4 x 23min.)

A bestselling author of horror novels, invites five "best friends" for a DINNER reunion. Friends he has not seen for 10 years. Under the pretext of revenge lies a reunion surreal: Michel Perron, the author, suffering from an incurable disease, asked one of his guests to kill him at the dinner. His goal: to ridicule and destroy the life of people responsible, he said, for his failed life. Michel Perron has planned and calculated everything, except one minor detail: there will be a death at this dinner, but it will not be him ... So round of interrogation begins, conducted by two police officers rather eccentric: Dan 60, a week from his retirement (the "Good Cop") and Jonathan 40, on the edge of a "burn out" (the "Bad cop").

MANIGANCES is a cop thriller on a psychological drama background. The universe of this series is based on relationships, sometimes crazy, that are developed in a personal gallery of eight complex and colorful characters. Despite the black humor, a background of serious psychological supports all, enhanced by an implacable and dangerous intrigue.

Each character hides a dark past including the two policemen. The realistic cold universe can compare to "The Wire", "19-2" or "Dark Blue". The depth of the intrigue is like "In Treatment" and "Confession" but all the atmosphere may soon become stifling, especially when the game of cat and mouse led by the two police officers could quickly turn against them.
